

Feeling depressed and wondering if cognition affects depression diagnosis and treatment?

Join the ACE-D Research Study

You may be eligible if you:

- Are between 18 to 60 years old
- Have depression
- Have access to a computer and reliable internet connection

The ACE-D study includes:

- Fully remote participation over one year
- Completion of online surveys and tasks on your computer
- Use of a smartphone app (for participants with a compatible phone)
- Compensation for your participation

Interested? Contact us!

SCAN THE QR CODE:

EMAIL:

ACE-D_Study@Stanford.edu

CALL:

650-498-9326

OR LEARN MORE INFORMATION ON OUR WEBSITE:

www.StanfordPMHW.com/ace-d

Questions or concerns about your rights as a research participant?

Call the UIC Office for the Protection of Research Subjects (OPRS) at 312-996-1711 or email uicirb@uic.edu

Leanne Williams, PhD
Vincent V.C. Woo Professor in Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences
Director of the Stanford Center for Precision Mental Health
This study is sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health.

Stanford

ACE-D STUDY
null-SITE133-MOD006
Effective: 10/17/2025
Expires: 1/16/2026
UIC Office for the Protection of Research Subjects